Lisbon's Hot Príncipe Real Neighborhood Gets a Five-Star Hotel

Lisbon has emerged as one of Europe's capitals of cool and the fashionable quarter of Príncipe Real is a hub of creative energy. On October 1, the neighborhood welcomes its first five-star hotel from the Memmo brand. The 41 minimalist rooms have limestone bathrooms and decor inspired by Portuguese heritage, like hanging lights from the traditional area of Marinha Grande. Many rooms also offer terraces with loungers and fire pits. Locally made bowler hats are a clever vehicle for staff to leave guests exhibitions tickets or restaurant recommendations. Café Colonial, the heart of the hotel, will be a see-and-be-seen hangout for locals and guests who come to taste chef Vasco Lello's global-take on Portuguese cuisine. *From $250; Rua D.
